

Foreclosure forces farmer from property

By Lorne Christensen

A Drayton Valley farmer's vigil to save his farm ended abruptly Monday afternoon when he was evicted by RCMP.

Sonny Engel, who lived about 12 miles north of Drayton Valley, was vowing to "stick it out."

But on Monday at about 3 p.m. the sheriff along with members of the RCMP evicted Engel from his farm. Moving vans and tow trucks followed the eviction to remove Engel's belongings.

Engel and about 25 other members of the Alberta Farm Survivalist group turned away the sheriff last Friday when he tried to serve the eviction order.

The sheriff left after seeing the barricade and several members of the media gathered for a previously-predicted "high noon" stand.

Engel lost the farm after the Alberta Agricultural Development Corporation (AADC) foreclosed on it.

John Oberg, coordinator of the Alberta branch of the National Farmers Union, said he was upset with the fact that the farm hadn't been sold but still "a man and his family and furniture are out on the street."

Engel confirmed he has applied for a $128,000 loan from a Leduc bank to try and save the farm.

The AADC has held the title to the 160-acre parcel of land since 1982, although he has continued to live there.

Engel borrowed $250,000 from the AADC in 1981 as a beginner farm loan. But six months later the corporation started foreclosure proceedings against the farm.

The 4,000-square-foot hog barn he was building with funds stands unfinished and "has never seen a hog," Engel said.

"I never had no hope in hell," he explained about repaying the loan.

Engel, who had 135 hogs three years ago and now has two, says his hogbarn could have held about 500 pigs.

The father of three said before being arrested he doesn't know what he'll do if forced to leave the farm.

"I've got no idea right now, nowhere to go," Engel said.

Engel's wife is currently in an Edmonton hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown, her third.

Engel, who went in to see her Sunday, said she will be in hospital a minimum of a month and possibly six months.

Engel came to the Drayton Valley area after working in construction for 20 years in Calgary.

"Becoming a farmer was the worst damn decision I ever made," he said.

"I'd like to be able to wake up tomorrow and think it was just a nightmare," he added.

Dave Werts, president of the Alberta Federation of Labor, said Engel "has done a service to the people of the province by forcing a confrontation."

'Street paver on 'hot seat'

Roman Wozniak was on the hotseat Thursday. Wozniak appeared before town council to answer questions about the street paving being done around town.

Members of council grilled the representative of Del Can Consulting about the work and also voiced several objections.

Councillor Howard Olsen expressed concern over the late start on the paving project, adding he expected them to be done before the Oct. 30 deadline.

Olsen also objected to the oil being spread on the streets.

He asked Wozniak to have more "consideration for residents."

Mayor Bob Mayhew continued along the same lines, asking the paving crews to leave some streets unsealed so residents would have a way out of their areas without driving on oil.

Olsen also expressed concern over the quality of the pavement already put down by the crews on 46th Avenue near Turbo.

Olsen said the "pavement was not good enough" and it looked like they were training new people on how to lay asphalt.

Town manager Manny Deil said he thought it looked like "a very poor job."

Mayor Mayhew and Olsen both questioned Wozniak on the oil already spread on the streets.

With the wet weather the oil will probably have to be re-applied because mud from vehicles will reduce the bonding quality of the mixture.

Wozniak explained they will be re-doing the sealed streets and promising to check on the problems with the 46th Avenue pavement.

He added "bad weather has hampered the operations" but promised the project would be complete before Oct. 30.

Counties urged to meet upset ratepayers

History is repeating itself. More than 10 years ago, citizens from the county of Leduc's west end petitioned for the formation of a new county of Drayton Valley claiming they were neglected by and isolated from county administration.

Justification for their complaints were general dissatisfaction with road maintenance, administration of funds for road purposes, services directed from locations too far from the economic and cultural centre of the community, outdated school boundaries, inadequate agricultural services and lack of recreational facilities. These complaints have existed for several years — the files of records and letters testify to this as once again west end county residents are proposing a split.

An Alberta Municipal and School Boundaries Advisory Committee proposal created a stir in the mid-'70s responding to a request from Drayton Valley area ratepayers for a county centred around the town of Drayton Valley. The report concluded the merits of the proposed Drayton Valley county are those essentially cited by ratepayers in the area who petitioned the government for a new county. While county of Parkland, Leduc and Wetaskiwin officials debated the study, the proposal claimed such a county — "squared off and centred around the town of Drayton Valley" — would give local residents an opportunity to have effective, local autonomous government and local self-determination.

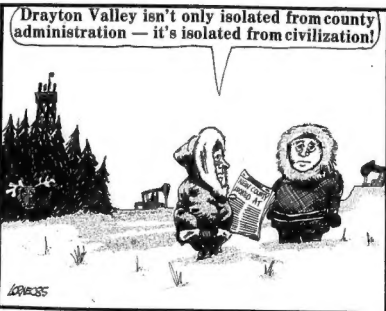

It was also determined at that time the proposed county of Drayton Valley would be economically sound and have a comparatively high per capita assessment in relation to neighboring counties.

After much debate at public hearings, little change resulted other than the drafting of equitable tuition agreements.

There have been problems in the west end of the county of Leduc and for many of the reasons advanced by angry ratepayers, there may be a need to form another county. However, the creation of a county of Drayton Valley is an extreme solution and not necessarily the answer to all problems. Such change goes too far, creating a fourth government resulting in the fragmentation of municipal revenues.

Before there's further talk of separation, county administration should make every effort to meet with west end ratepayers to convince them the county is being operated as a unit with fair county-wide policies effected for all. If complaints persist, the county should consider some change in methods of administration to soothe alienated residents.

From all the complaints of the oily streets, it appeared it was a good time to be out of town. From last Thursday through Sunday, we had the opportunity of attending the Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association convention at Lethbridge.

Shocking

Kindergarten is an early age for children to start reading, but three two youngsters seem to have come across a shocking discovery that nobody else knew about.

SCHOOL NOTEBOOK

It was picture-taking day at Drayton Valley schools on Monday.

Howard Pearson, principal at Eldorado School reports the town has hired a crosswalk supervisor for the corner of 56th Street and 56th Avenue. Because of the four-way traffic at this corner, the Parents Advisory Committee at the school may be asked to assist in getting the children across the road.

Pearson also reports that the flashing crosswalk lights on 56th Street in front of the school are now working. These flashing lights work on an automatic system and were down last week due to a malfunction caused by a power outage in the area.

The new in-town busing is proving to be very popular as the county of Parkland is looking at adding a fourth bus.

At the H.W. Pickup Junior High School the students will be busy for the next two weeks running a marathon. It's part of an inter-house competition.

The meet-the-teacher night at the junior high school drew about 50 parents.

Mark Smith is 25 years old and will be teaching social studies and physical education at Frank Maddock High School. He graduated from the University of Alberta and is getting married in October.

Garry Unternchultz is the new vice-principal at Frank Maddock High School. The 36-year-old is married with two children and has his bachelor of education from the University of Alberta and a masters degree from the University of Western Washington. He will be teaching math at the school.

Good opportunity

Kids learn about gymnastics

Last Thursday the gym classes at the Elementary 'B' School were executed a little differently than normal.

Gillian Best, a gymnastic coach was on hand to give the students an introduction to gymnastics.

Best visited the school to promote gymnastics and to teach the students creative movement. "I want them to be experimental and do things on their own, but at the same time I have to keep control, otherwise the kids could get out of hand," Best said.

Every class was given an opportunity to spend a session with the gymnastics instructor.

Walking on your hands is a small part of gymnastics.

Curling fees are up by 10 per cent, Salfi returns

Alex Salfi was happy with the turnout. Salfi, who had just been re-elected president of the Drayton Valley curling club, said "at least we filled up all the chairs."

More than just the chairs were full as about 100 people crowded into the curling club for their general meeting and registration night.

In addition to registering, the club also elected its executive for the upcoming year. Salfi was re-elected president while Bruce Clumner was voted in as vice president. Jeanette Morrison was appointed secretary with Gayleen McQuinn getting the nod as treasurer. Peter Saunders returned as bar chairman and Morris Neal was elected ice chairman.

The club also vowed to "start an effort" to raise money for a new rink.

Salfi told the meeting that if they didn't get something going soon in "two years they won't have a building."

The club voted to increase their fees by 10 per cent with the increase "going into a building fund."

"We have to start somewhere and we have to keep adding to it," Salfi told the group.

Salfi added that because of the leadership campaign the government is not giving any answers to funding requests.

The club is looking at building a $700,000 facility with six sheets of ice that can be used all year around by various clubs.

The club also tendered out the caretaking and kitchen contracts at the meeting. Jerry Merwin was re-hired by the club and Urs Japke was hired to manage the kitchen.

The club also filled all of the positions open on various committees.

Two weeks notice

Schedules coming

Last winter's minor hockey was plagued by scheduling problems that resulted in often only a week's notice about game and practices times.

This year it will be different, promises minor hockey president Garry Janzen.

Janzen said the minor hockey executive has passed a resolution that will mean a minimum of two weeks notice will be given for scheduled times.

"We're in the process of trying to draw up the schedule," Janzen said.

Janzen added that for the "first little while" there may be some confusion with the schedule but there shouldn't be any problems "once they get rolling."

"We'll do it for the whole year ahead if possible," Janzen explained.

Janzen added that scheduling is a "tough job" and it's often hard to get "everything planned out."

Badminton starts

The Drayton Valley badminton club is looking for members.

The club will have their first season October 1 at H.W. Pickup from 7 to 9 p.m. They will play every Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. and every Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m.

According to club president Steve MacMillen, the club will run until Christmas and then take a break before starting up in the new year again.

Last year the club ran the first part of the season until Christmas and then ended up not going after Christmas because of a lack of enthusiasm MacMillen said.

The club expects about 25 to 30 members, but MacMillen would like to see more people out so they could rent a larger gymnasium.

Safety collars

Hockey group recommends use

It started with a scramble for the puck and ended with a player dying as his throat was slashed open by a teammate's skate blade.

The recent incident during a junior hockey game in British Columbia has sparked a controversy across Canada which could lead to hockey players being required to wear neck protectors. Locally, it is not mandatory but the Drayton Valley Minor Hockey Association is "encouraging" players to wear the protective equipment.

"All the coaches will be informed to encourage the kids to wear neck collars," says Garry Janzen, president of minor hockey.

Janzen says they will be "pushing" the idea despite the fact the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association has not yet made a definite ruling.

Bill Farrell, an RCMP officer and member of the local minor hockey executive, says he "can't understand why people would not want to use the safety equipment."

"Eventually it will be made mandatory but it probably takes something to happen first," Farrell explained.

Farrell added he feels the neck protector will become as regular as face masks in minor hockey. "Most people are aware of what's happened with all the throat and neck injuries."

"We had a chance to be a leader in the field but the parents voted it out," Farrell added.

The British Columbia incident was the second in less than a year involving a throat slashing. A player with the Richmond Sockeyes survived his accident, while the latest victim "didn't have a chance" according to reports.

CHUTE TALK

It's a busy weekend on the rodeo circuit. The Wild Rose Association finals will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Mayerthorpe arena. And, two professional stops this weekend include Morley and Lacombe.

Lynne Argent of Drayton Valley, who placed ninth in ladies barrels on the Wild Rose circuit, will be on the sidelines this weekend. A serious ankle injury at the Valleyview rodeo limited her participation and she failed to ride in the necessary number of rodeos.

A horse improvement show will be held this Saturday and Sunday at the Western Exposition in Red Deer.

Two rodeo finals are booked for next month. The PCA finals will be held Oct. 4-6 at Hanna with the Chinook Rodeo Association finals Oct. 11-13 at the Taber Agriplex.

The Wild Rose Rodeo Association will hold their windup Oct. 20 at the Barrhead Inn. The annual meeting starts at 10 a.m. with the awards supper at 6 p.m.

Racers

BMX opening this Sunday

Racers should get their bikes tuned up for the grand opening race at the new BMX track. The track, located beside the new ball diamonds at Lions Park, will be officially opened Sunday, September 29.

The races will kick off at 1 p.m. with registration at noon.

Organizers are expecting about 30 racers for this first event on the track.

Trophies will be given out to the top three racers for this Kinsmen-sponsored event.

A special added attraction at the races will be performances by a BMX trick team from Red Deer.

The team will perform tricks on ramps constructed by Mike Miller.

of Drayton Valley. The team will also be performing at the Derrick Mall all day Saturday. Organizers say only racers with the proper safety gear will be able to ride.

Ladies golf

Spring winners

The ladies' golf league wrapped up recently at the Drayton Valley Golf Club.

Winners of the spring league (May-June) were V. Helm, Chris Stasok, Ginny Kueck and Lil Mayhew.

Runners up were Gena Hesse, Barth, Whitney Barker, Bonnie Erickson and Corey Kelpoutsky. The afternoon league winners were Cara Lea Weaver, Barb Matheson, Anne Griffiths and Lil Mayhew.

Yvonne Yurehak, Karal Hansen, Margaret Billa and Peggy Wisting were runners up.

In the summer league (July-August) the winners were V. Helm, Sherla Edwards, Alice Leake and Pat Vachon.

The runners-up were Susan Long, Kim Janewski, Cindy Brooks and Doreen Harrison.

Lloyd heads Nordic skiers

The Pembina Nordic Ski Club picked a perfect night for their organizational meeting.

As the snow was falling outside, about 20 members of the club were inside discussing the upcoming season.

Eric Lloyd was elected president of the club with Ross MacDonald being given the vice president's position.

Jackie Lowery returned as secretary with Kim Green taking over as treasurer.

The club had three students clear their 20 km of trails near the downhill ski hill over the summer and are planning to "slowly expand" the trails.

The club is also hoping to host a topset in early March. They have set March 2 as a tentative date for the event.

Anyone interested in joining the club can contact Joan Carr at 542-6558.

Individuals pay $4 for the year, couples pay $6 and families can ski for $8.

During the weekend of Oct. 26 and 27, around 40 teams from Whitecourt, Edmonton, Edson, Hinton, Fox Creek and other towns will be curling in the oil industry event. Entry fee for the Plant problems

There are some problems at the Drayton Valley arena.

Initially, the ice was supposed to be in last week, but after two breakdowns is equipment it was delayed. According to Calvin Bensfield, recreation director, the motor on the ice plant failed and then the pump.

Bensfield says they are "projecting Thursday" for the ice to be in. Bensfield added once they get going they will "work around the clock" to get the ice in.

Swimmer saved at local pool

It could have been a tragedy but fortunate (if it was).

Last Thursday at the Park Valley Elementary School a student from Eldorado Elementary School was pulled from the bottom of the pool by a lifeguard.

Lance Nelson had the wind knocked out of him after coming off the slide.

"Debbie Bringle responded extremely well," according to Park Valley Swimming Pool manager Charlene Jenkins.

"She got to him quick and did the correct treatment," Jenkins added.

Nelson was taken to University hospital in Edmonton for observation.

"Accidents do happen but, we'll really be looking at what we can do to prevent them," Jenkins pointed out.

Howard Pearson, principal of Eldorado school, said the accident was "handled really well" by the pool staff.

Pearson said he wanted to ensure parents that every precaution is being taken with their classes at the pool.

"We'll have to re-examine how we supervise the kids," Pearson pointed out.

"It was a good ending to what could have been a tragedy," Pearson added.

Soccer finals

The finals and league banquet for the Central Alberta Rural Town Soccer League will be held in Drayton Valley this weekend.

Games start at 8 a.m. Saturday and continue on Sunday at 11 a.m. at Lions Park.

Host Drayton Valley Crests will play in the opening match against the Strikers.

An awards banquet will be held at the Legion Saturday night with about 160 soccer players expected to attend.

In other soccer news, Crests picked up four points with a win and two ties.

They tied 1-1 with both Whitecourt and Spruce Grove and then thrashed the Strikers 6-0 in recent soccer action.

New co-ordinator

Val Tucker is the new co-ordinator for the Further Education Council. Tucker taught kindergarten before moving to Drayton Valley and has taught elementary school in Iowa. She has been involved with the local figure skating and poetry clubs. From working with the figure skating club Tucker has a lot of experience in taking registrations and organizing programs.

Powerhouse

Free courses have openings

The new coordinator with the Powerhouse is Val Tucker. Tucker is coordinating the new of registrations for the Powerhouse courses.

Val Tucker says registrations for a course dealing with child sexual abuse only drew 12 interested people. "Because we are bringing the instructor in from Edmonton, we need at least 20 people," Tucker says. And, a co-occurer course, which is also free, drew limited response.

While the two courses are free, it's important for people to confirm their attendance. "We need this type of information just to proceed," Tucker says.

If anyone is interested in the free child sexual abuse or co-occurer courses, call Val Tucker at 542-3373 for more information.

While these two courses came up short in expected registrations, Tucker reports that extra classes will be needed for beginners photography and primitive weaving. Several other courses in clothing word processing, wardrobe planning, computers and cutting children's hair are full. The intermediate photography class is also full and a waiting list may result in another class.

Four kilometre run

The second annual Turkey Trot will be held on October 10 at noon. Participants will make their way around a 4 kilometre course, starting and finishing at Frank Madock High School.

Rick Watrick, organizer of the event, says last year's run drew about 70 competitors.

All finishers have a chance to win a year's free pass to the swimming pool.

Entrants must be registered by October 3 and entry forms can be picked up from Rick Watrick at the school or The Western Review.

The top three males and female runners from the school will receive awards with the top male and female adult runners also getting awards.

Last year the event was open only to students and teachers, but this year's contest is also open to the general public.

The race will start at noon and the entry fee is $1.

The event is being sponsored by Rick's

Sporting Goods, School Students' Union and The Western Review.

Breton looking at new pool

By Sheila Carson
696-2290

The Breton High School is in the process of beginning some projects to increase community involvement in the school, the most exciting of which is the possible construction of a regulation size swimming pool connected between the junior and senior high school wings.

A meeting at the high school gymnasium was held Sept. 17. Allen Waldron, president of the Breton Recreation Board, explained how such a feat may be accomplished. According to a survey carried out previously, a swimming pool is a first priority project of the majority of the area residents.

An engineering study has been completed and has found that the present washroom and shower facilities are more than adequate and only a minimal of upgrading the present heating system is required. The preliminary cost estimate for the complete construction of a covered pool is $500,000.

The next step begins today (Wednesday) when representatives will approach the county of Leduc. Total support of the project was given by the approximately 70 people attending the meeting.

Village mayor Colleen Lee stressed that all funding for this project must come in the form of grants, volunteer labor and community involvement as no increase in either village or county taxes may be considered to help fund the project.

Some other interests brought forth at the meeting by principal Jim Thomson include how the school can become more responsive to the community in regard to extra curricular activities and a stronger parent association, as well as community use of school facilities.

The school is presently being "brightened up" by use of paint, panel and bulletin boards.

On Thursday, Sept. 26 at 7:00 p.m., an academic awards night will be held at the high school.

Scouts, Cubs, Brownies and Beavers will be starting Tuesday evenings from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Beavers and Brownies meet at the Civic Centre basement, Cubs and Scouts at the elementary school and Guides at the hall. A Pathfinders group (girls 15-18) may be started if enough interest is shown.

Dorothy and Ray Gerweke travelled to Calgary Sept. 7 to attend their daughter Diane's marriage to Michael Andrews of Calgary.

Belle and Cleve Carson report having a good time in Houston, R.C. where they visited son Wayne and his wife Marilyn and daughter Lynette.

Scouts Elementary School students from Grade 1 to 6 are beginning a social studies unit on titled Wagon Trails to Hardtop. A part of the unit was a field trip to Pt. Edmonston Sept. 18. Pictures for elementary students will be Sept. 28.

Credit cost cut

The County of Parkland have changed their minds about the $25-per-credit charge for adults going back to school.

Superintendent Mary Thachuk told The Western Review Monday, "We've decided not to go ahead."

Thachuk says the decision was made because several people had expressed their concern.

One person who spoke out against the $25-per-credit for an adult returning to school was Frank Maddock High School principal Allan Day. "It will drive adults out of the school system. They play a key role in the education system. Day stated, when the $25 per credit idea was originally introduced by the County of Parkland.

Thachuk says his board will be reviewing the issue. Meanwhile, students 20 and over, who will be returning to school, will only face the regular registration costs.

Linda Drader

Sitters course full

The Drayton Valley Kinettes are busy preparing for another season.

Linda Drader is their new president. Joining her on the executive are vice president Glenda Wilford, secretary Susan Lee, treasurer Pat Karl and directors Joann Thachuk and Pat Karbovanec.

The Kinettes under the direction of Karbovanec will be involved with the Alberta Safety Council's babysitting course that starts today (Wednesday). The course attracted its second straight full registration of 28 students. The course is held for six weeks with Wednesday evening sessions from 7 p.m. at St. Anthony's Church. Guest speakers such as the fire chief, a registered nurse and a member of the RCMP attend.

Dogs nabbed

Only 13 dogs were claimed out of the 111 caught up to June 1985 by the animal control of fire.

Council was told that each dog caught cost Drayton Valley about $112.

The report submitted to council showed that May was the most productive month with 36 dogs caught, including a mutter and 12 pups.

The animal control of fire spent $19 hours at a cost of $9,085 to catch the animals.

Helpers needed

The Drayton Valley hospital auxiliary is looking for volunteers.

All members of the community served by the Drayton Valley hospital are welcome to join the auxiliary.

Meetings are held the second Thursday of the month in the hospital board room at 8 p.m. For more information call 542-5069.

Equipment recovered

A lengthy RCMP undercover operation that ended last week with the arrest of five Alberta men and the seizure of more than $200,000 in heavy equipment may include some equipment from Drayton Valley and area.

Col. Chris Lee of the Drayton Valley RCMP detachment said he was unable to comment on that possibility until he had more information on the undercover operation.

A quality of firearms was also seized in simultaneous raids by R. Division Mounties across North Central Alberta late last week. The RCMP in Edson, Thorby, Evansburg, Stony Plain and Leduc participated in the roundup. The undercover operation took several months.

Property recovered included a D6 Cat, a Bob cat, a hay baler and some welding equipment.

Council News

Tourists and residents of Drayton Valley won't be able to park their trailers and boats on the streets anymore.

Under a proposed bylaw, people parking boats and trailers on the street will be ticketed.

Sidewalks in the downtown area are being replaced because of the planned paving of the streets.

It will cost the town about $30,000 to replace the walks.

Council made the decision after they noted the new pavement would have to be ripped up to replace the walks if they were not done now.

The video production on Drayton Valley won't be completed until next summer.

Councillor Bill Panter told town council the video is being delayed because of weather conditions.

Council will be looking into the cost of widening the street in front of the Legion.

Although it was noted the Legion is not in favor of changes, council still agreed the area was a safety hazard.

The street narrows down about six feet in front of the Legion and councillor Olsen pointed out the "potential" for a very serious accident.

Council agreed to warn residents of future surveying projects after they received several complaints.

Residents complained after surveyors working for the town sprayed orange paint on their fence.

Although the paint was water soluble, council agreed that the public should be "warned what's going on."

Mayor Bob Mayhew said he would be mad, too, if someone sprayed his fence.

Third model in a series

Dream comes true

By Lorne Christensen

Would be models, actors and entertainers all dream of being discovered one day, but for most it never happens.

But for Georgina Lawrence it did. The 17-year-old model from Tomahawk was "discovered", so to speak, at Klondike Days in Edmonton.

"I wanted to be a model all my life," Lawrence said.

Her dream came true when a lady came up to her at Klondike Days three years ago and asked her to come into a modelling agency.

"My parents said no and then asked me to wait a year," Lawrence explained.

So, after waiting a year she went in and took a 12 week modelling course from John Casabianca. Since then the graduate of Frank Maddock High School has done a television commercial and a "whole herd of fashion shows."

But Lawrence's modelling career is only beginning.

She was most recently one of five models out of 500 asked to go to Germany and New York for John Casabianca.

But one thing that is holding her back is her height.

At only five-foot seven she is just under the basic five-foot eight requirement for models.

"Germany would be better for my height, it might be where I want to go," Lawrence says.

So for now Lawrence is content to work part time as a model in Edmonton in addition to being a receptionist at John Casabianca's office and also taking a two-year court reporting course at NAIT.

Her modelling may also be limited by her schooling.

Lawrence says the problem is that often there is only a day's notice for an assignment, which makes it hard while going to school.

Lawrence already has several impressive assignments for her portfolio including a commercial with ITV.

The station identification commercial, which ran for six months, was "scary" to do according to Lawrence.

She explained every time she saw it she asked herself "Did I do something wrong?"

"I wasn't used to it when you see yourself for the first couple of times."

She was often approached by people who thought they had seen her somewhere before.

"People were coming up to me, it gets embarrassing at times," Lawrence pointed out.

But for Lawrence her "life-long dream" is becoming a reality. She says her home is still Tomahawk, where her dad, a retired RCMP of fier, and mother live on a farm.

Lawrence is also quick to recommend the course she took to others even if they don't want to become professional models.

"I'd suggest it to anybody, it gives you confidence," she explains.

Georgina's portfolio includes several fashion shows.

MLA speaks to local meeting

Gurnett is optimistic about NDP chances

By Kiply Lukas Vaworaki

WABURG - Jim Gurnett is optimistic about the headway the New Democratic Party will make in the next provincial election.

"We can't promise that we're going to see a new government in the next election... but we're going to see an end to the lopsided government we have had," the MLA for Spirit River-Fairview said in an interview Wednesday at Warburg, where he spoke to the Drayton Valley constituency NDP nomination meeting.

With the Tory leadership race underway, a new mood is evident in the province, Gurnett maintained.

"People are really looking at the ideas that different parties are proposing. A lot of people sort of voted out of a residual respect for Peter Lougheed," the NDP MLA said.

"I think it's a healthy thing. I think it's time. In the absence of good ideas on behalf of the PC party, the sort of arrogant conservatism about the ordinary people in Alberta is starting to be seen now that they're free of that one leader and the kind of impression he created."

More Albertans are listening to what the New Democratic Party is saying in the wake of this new realization, he said, predicting that interest will translate into more seats for the NDP in the next provincial election.

"Just to talk about those two issues the leadership candidates always raise - unemployment and agriculture - we've been talking about and proposing effective ideas for a long time now," Gurnett said.

"They're practical, workable ideas... that aren't going to cost the province a lot of money and will put an end to the free lunches and giveaways to the big friends of high government."

The soft spoken man who took up the NDP banner in the Spirit River-Fairview constituency after the death of party leader Grant Neelley, looks at the current PC leadership race with a bit of irony.

"If they're concerned about unemployment or agriculture the way the three candidates for the leadership claim to be... why hasn't this government been doing something about it?" he queried.

"You're not going to turn around a gigantic party like that, simply by changing the leadership. If there's a failure on the part of the entire government and a cabinet of 30 men, then I don't think any one of the leadership candidates is going to make a difference."

The Tory leadership campaign is a diversion, he said. "It's a way to avoid having to produce results for people."

About 40 NDP candidates have so far been nominated across Alberta, with interest high in many of the meetings, Gurnett said, noting nominations are being continued in some areas for the first time. In addition, participants include people who worked for other parties in past elections, he said.

"There's a new climate. There's not the same fear of New Democrats as wild socialist radicals that there was in years past... people are starting to look a little more rationally at it and say 'hey, wait, you're just another political option that believe, government should be positively active, rather than trying to do as little as possible. We're not going to revolutionize Alberta, you're going to give a faster deal to the small businessman and to the average farmer,'" Gurnett said.

Dink Cameron entertains seniors at the lodge.

"Feels good"

Cameron plays at Shangri-La

By Ray Lenechbury

"I do it because it's something I feel I have to do. I don't care about the money. It just makes me feel good."

That is how Dink Cameron described his performance at the Shangri-La Lodge on Wednesday, Sept. 18.

While performing at the lodge Cameron had an enthusiastic audience of seniors, visitors, and staff. The performance was very popular with the seniors as they clapped, sang and toe-tapped to the music.

Cameron originally from Sydney, Nova Scotia, now resides in Delburne, Alberta. He has been in the business for 25 years and hasn't regretted it once, according to Cameron.

He owns Stern Records, a small producing company that he operates out of his home along with a silent partner.

Dink is a one-man show travelling the circuit in Alberta playing at the smaller, cozier bars. Playing for the seniors is not something he gets paid for in cash, he feels he is "paid enough in the heart."

Weather prevents harvest

The snow, rain and cold is affecting the annual harvest.

Doug Walkey, district agriculturalist in Drayton Valley doubts if five per cent of the crop has been taken off.

Commenting about the recent snowfall, Walkey says, "That's normal Drayton Valley weather. It's pretty typical stuff."

"We were on time until the snow and cold hit," he added.

The district agriculturalist, who is hoping for some good weather yet, says it's not unusual in this area to see an October harvest.

Walkey says farmers are looking at getting 50 bushels per acre of barley while a lot of oats have already been taken off for grain feed.

Caravan scheduled to stop locally

Caravan exhibits, a program operated by the Provincial Museum have scheduled stops at Niton, Wildwood and Evansburg.

The exhibits, which provide an opportunity for rural residents to visit educational and cultural displays will be at the Niton School on Sunday, Sept. 29 from 1 to 5 p.m. The caravan moves on to the Wildwood recreation arena on Oct. 1 during school hours and also from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The first display "From Generation to Generation" is sponsored by the Provincial Archives of Alberta. The display demonstrates how history is recorded and preserved by the archives and how you, as an individual, can assist in the process and also benefit from the information.

The second trailer contains an exhibit on the history of photography in Alberta. The display features cameras used between 1890 and the present day and archival photographs from the period 1890-1992. The focus is on changes in camera equipment and related changes in the type of pictures taken by Albertans.

Caravan visitors will also see a story on the breeding birds of Alberta and a display entitled "Alberta Dinosaurs".

There is no charge to see the exhibits.

Yellowhead Council considers area development plan

The Yellowhead Economic Council is considering a development plan.

Executive Director David Jones has laid out a development plan for Yellowhead industrial development on a project-by-project basis. The executive director advised the council that until a strategy is determined by the council, specifics regarding the firms which might expand or develop in the area should be kept confidential.

The council decided at their last meeting to establish an executive committee who will develop an industrial development strategy for Yellowhead. The committee will meet next week to review possible development projects within the region, and to select from such a list, four or five that the council will work on exclusively in order to promote their development in Yellowhead.

Jones has submitted 21 possible projects for the riding, and noted that Joe Clark's office had files on a number of other potential firms. It has been an objective of the council to define specific job development projects within Yellowhead which would lead to, and assist the employment and economic situation within the riding.

Weekend workshop for 4-H horse people

By Candace Hodge
Regional 4-H Specialist, Barrhead
ATTENTION ALL HORSE FANS! 4-H leaders, assistant leaders, junior leaders, parents and 4-H alumni members are welcome to attend the first 4-H workshop of this kind. The compulsory trail ride sport will be the highlight of the workshop weekend surrounded with fun, friends and learning.

Everyone will meet Saturday, Oct. 26 at Roy Cusack's farm in the Devon area at noon to begin Stage 1 of the workshop. In the afternoon a local veterinarian will be our guest to teach participants how to condition their horse for competitive trail riding and how to take their horses' pulse and respiration.

After a hearty potluck supper we'll gather around the campfire for an evening of friendship and entertainment. Then it will be off to sleep and rest up for the 16-mile circular competitive ride the next morning. Competitors are given a specific time range for completing the course. Coming in either under or over the allowable time range results in time faults. During the course of the ride participants will be stopping at check stations where their horses' pulse and respirations, etc., will be measured and scored.

For those who feel that their horse or themselves are not conditioned to endure the 16-mile competitive ride, alternate activities will be planned. Camping facilities are available on the premises.

The workshop weekend is designed to expose 4-H clubs to an alternate horsemanship sport which may prove to be an exciting and enjoyable challenge for many 4-H'ers.

For more information or to let us know you're coming, please call the Regional 4-H office 634-6246 or 134-1249 on the RITE line.

As any Albertan knows, October weather is unpredictable in this area. We'll keep our fingers crossed for good weather. However, if the weather doesn't cooperate the weekend will be postponed until spring of '86.

TO DEBBIE & OWEN ON YOUR WEDDING DAY

Today you start out as man and wife,
Like starting a new career in life.
You'll have to work together now
To make your marriage last somehow.
Neither one must be the boss,
But both together in gain or loss.
Times when your task is hard to bear,
It will make it easier when you learn to share.
At making a home you both will work,
And neither one of you two must shirk.
When things from your single life you miss,
Remember your vows and seal with a kiss.
As you work together as couples should,
He'll help in the house and she'll help out wood.
When Debbie works she likes to toil,
And Owen likes to work in oil.
If little ones come into your home,
You'll have a family all your own.
But whatever your future together will be,
We hope you'll both be happy and free.

Trade show looked at

The Yellowhead Economic Council is taking a second look at hosting a trade show.

In July, the council authorized a survey of communities, businesses and agencies within Yellowhead to determine their feelings about a west central Alberta trade show.

A number of communities expressed concern that their own local trade fair would be severely hurt or eliminated by a trade show. Others expressed concern that Yellowhead was not a trading area, but rather, a political boundary.

As a result, the economic council has decided to pursue the matter a little further. They plan to meet next month to set some guidelines. In the meantime, letters are being sent to all towns in Yellowhead with a chamber, and to towns and village councils.

See you there!
Congratulations to the 1985 4-H scholarship winners for the Northwest Region!

Everyone Welcome!

Tomatoes have always been popular for home canning.

They are easy to can, and in the past have always been considered foolproof. Traditionally, tomatoes have been grouped with the high acid fruits. Today more caution is recommended in the processing and handling of tomatoes because some tomatoes have been found to be lower in acidity than previous varieties. With care the lower acid varieties are as safely canned as acidic varieties.

There are:

- 1) added acid and boiling water bath; 2) pressure canner.

For both methods choose firm, fresh, ripe tomatoes. Keep in mind that imperfections such as black spots, cracks and soft spots could harbor harmful micro-organisms.

If you choose to use the boiling water bath for canning tomatoes, ACID MUST BE ADDED. Harmful bacteria and micro-organisms are killed at the boiling point of water (212°F) if sufficient acid is present. Citric acid is preferred for increasing the acid strength of foods because it contributes no additional flavor. Lemon juice or vinegar can be used, but they will affect the flavor if used in too strong a proportion.

The following equation illustrates the amount of acid to be used. Choose one of the acids to increase acidity when canning tomatoes using the boiling water bath:

Pints: ¼ tsp of citric acid powder = a generous 1 tbsp of lemon juice or vinegar

Quarts: ½ tsp citric acid powder = a generous 1 tbsp of lemon juice or vinegar

Use fresh lemons or bottled reconstituted lemon juice

Three locals honored

Three Drayton Valley students have earned a place on the University of Alberta, Faculty of Science Dean's honor roll.

The three include Mae Chow, Dawnelle Topstad and Helen Verbees.

Inclusion on the dean's honor roll requires that a student registered in the Faculty of Science achieve a first class standing in 7.5 or higher out of 9.01 grade point average while carrying a full academic course load.

Use only white distilled vinegar, avoid using "raw" or "country" vinegars. Both could contribute sediment and/or a pronounced flavor.

If you choose to use the pressure canner to can tomatoes it is not necessary to add acid. At 10 lb. pressure, water boils at 240°F. This high temperature is required to kill harmful bacteria and micro-organisms in low acid foods (all vegetables and meats).

Don't cut corners or take shortcuts in canning procedures. Use the appropriate method of processing - either a boiling water bath for high acid foods (fruit) or a pressure canner for low acid foods (vegetables and meats).

For more information on exact canning procedure or processing times give me a call at 542-5366, or stop in at Alberta Agriculture. I have a number of informational pamphlets and brochures available free of charge. Also, keep in mind our 8-day pressure canner mental program sponsored jointly between the Agricultural Service Board and the district home economist.

Q. How can I remove ketchup stains from my child's shirt?

A. Laundering may set the stain so it is important to pre-treat before laundering. Sponge or rinse the shirt in cool water. Work in liquid detergent and rinse. If any stain remains, use an appropriate bleach. (This method works well for most non greasy stains).
